The width should be determined by content, but with 4 columns it should be 1584 px. The side margin should be variable.
The Gap length and width should be fixed, and the number of column can determined by the total available view port width. Maximum number of columns has not been decided, user testing needed.

Minimum margin is 48 px on both side.
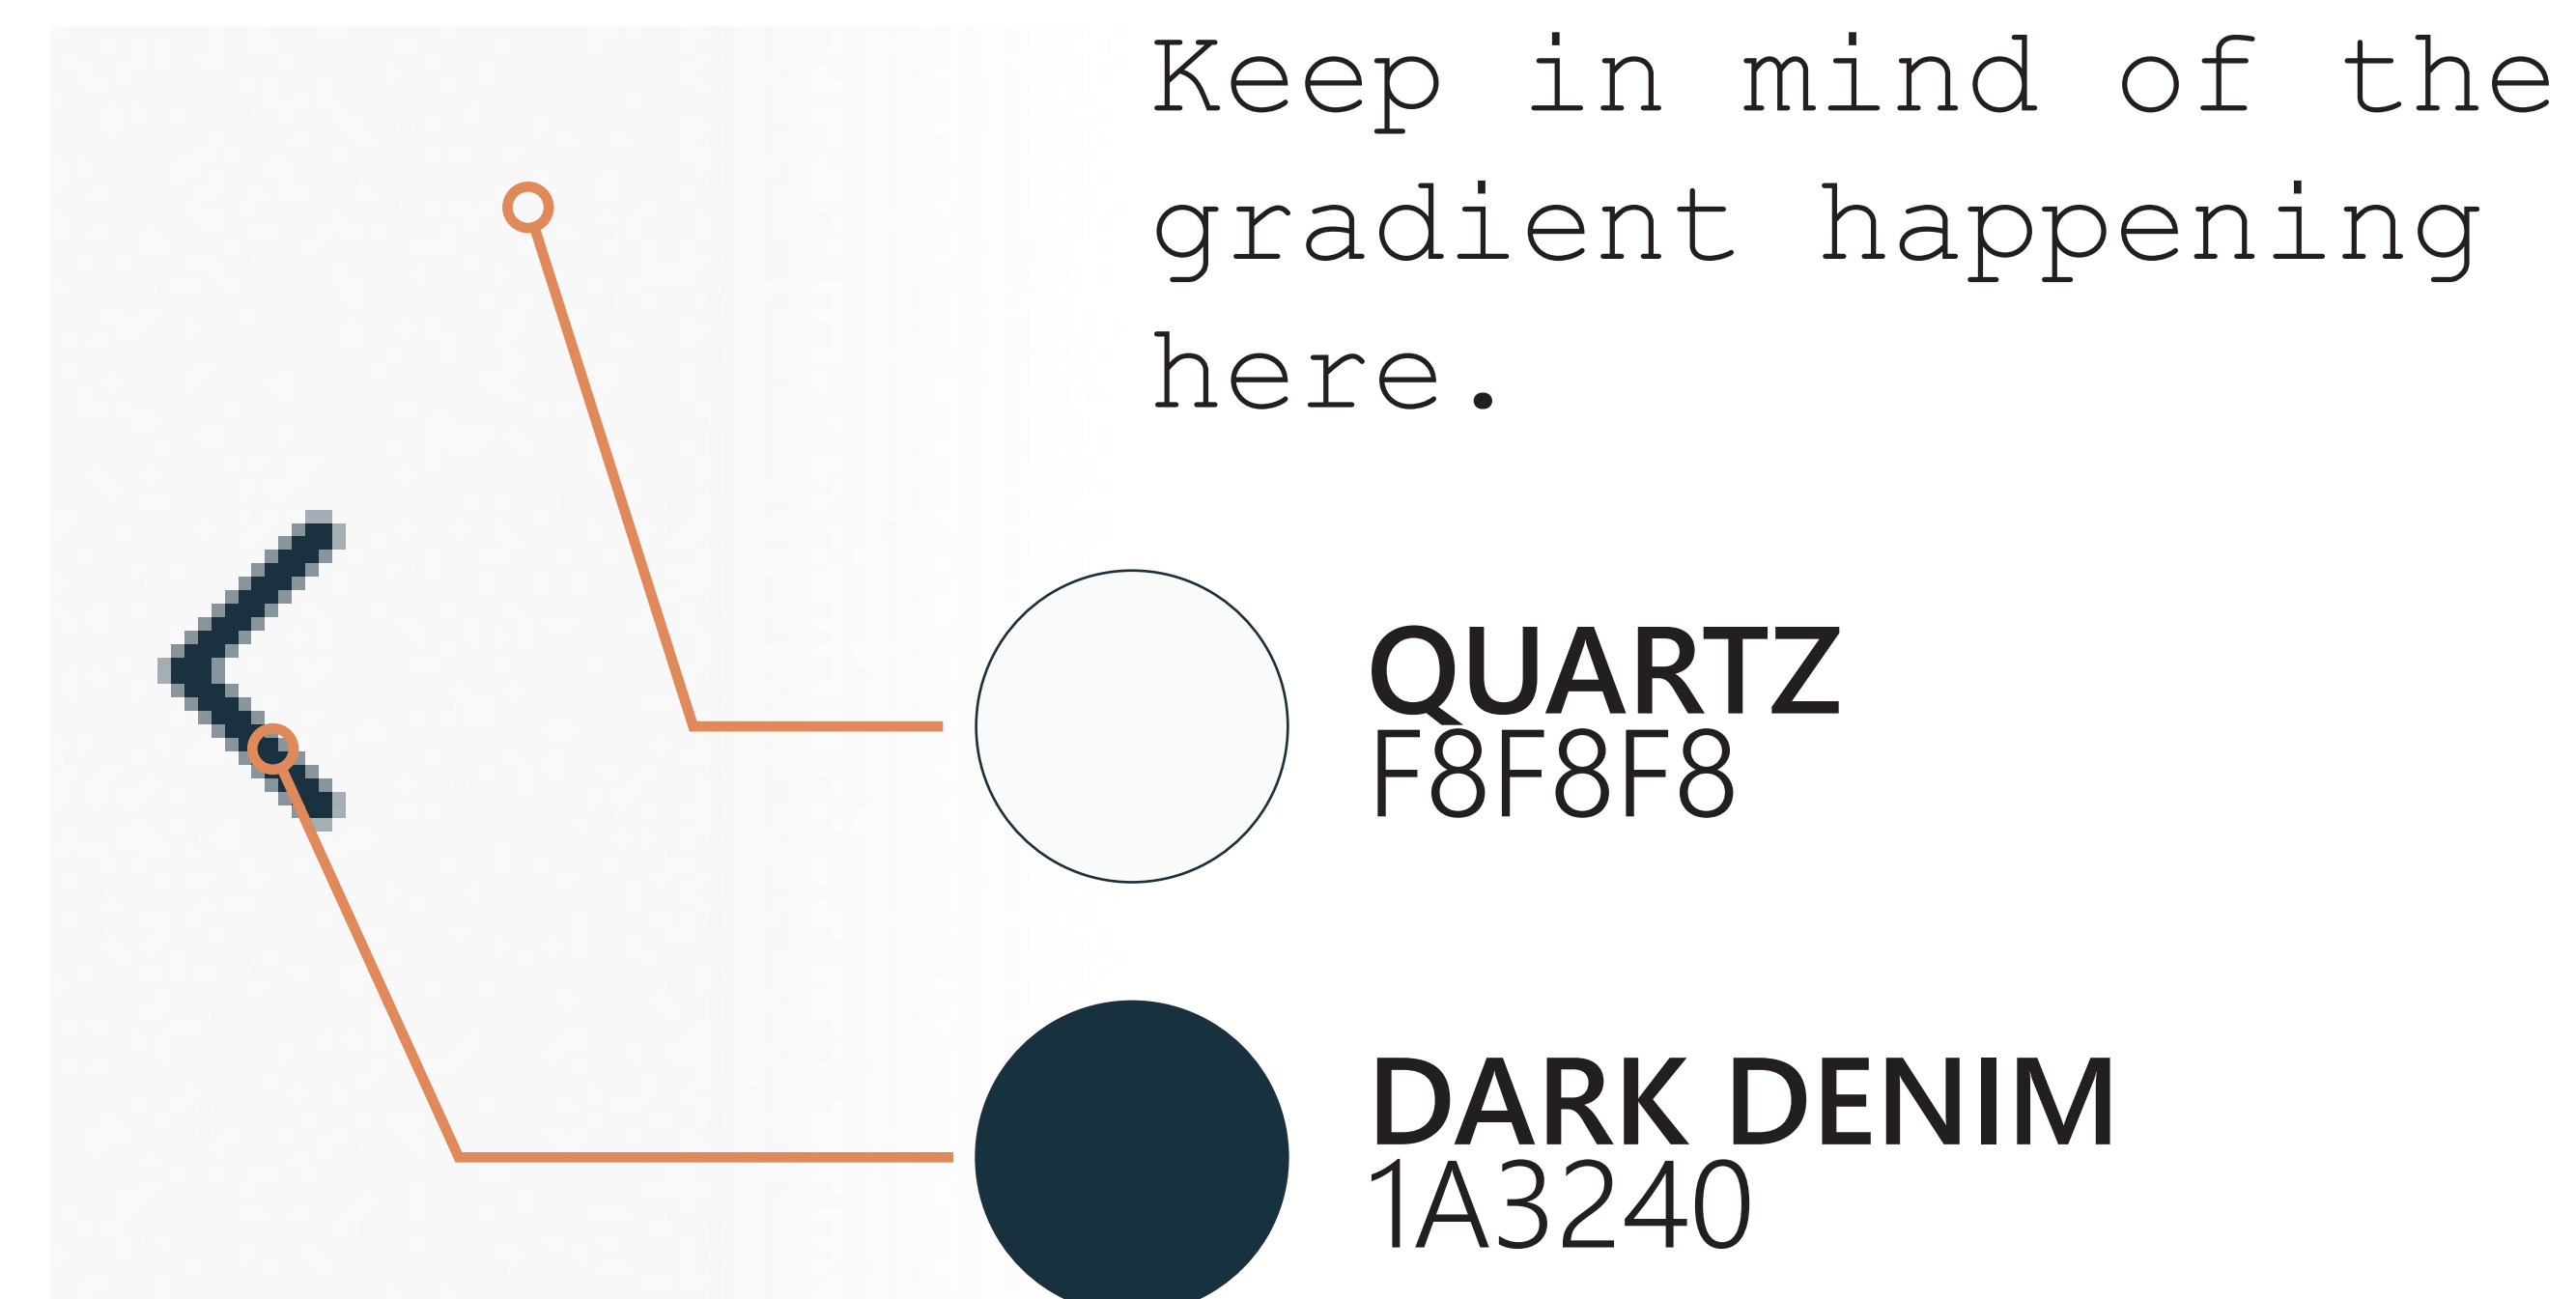

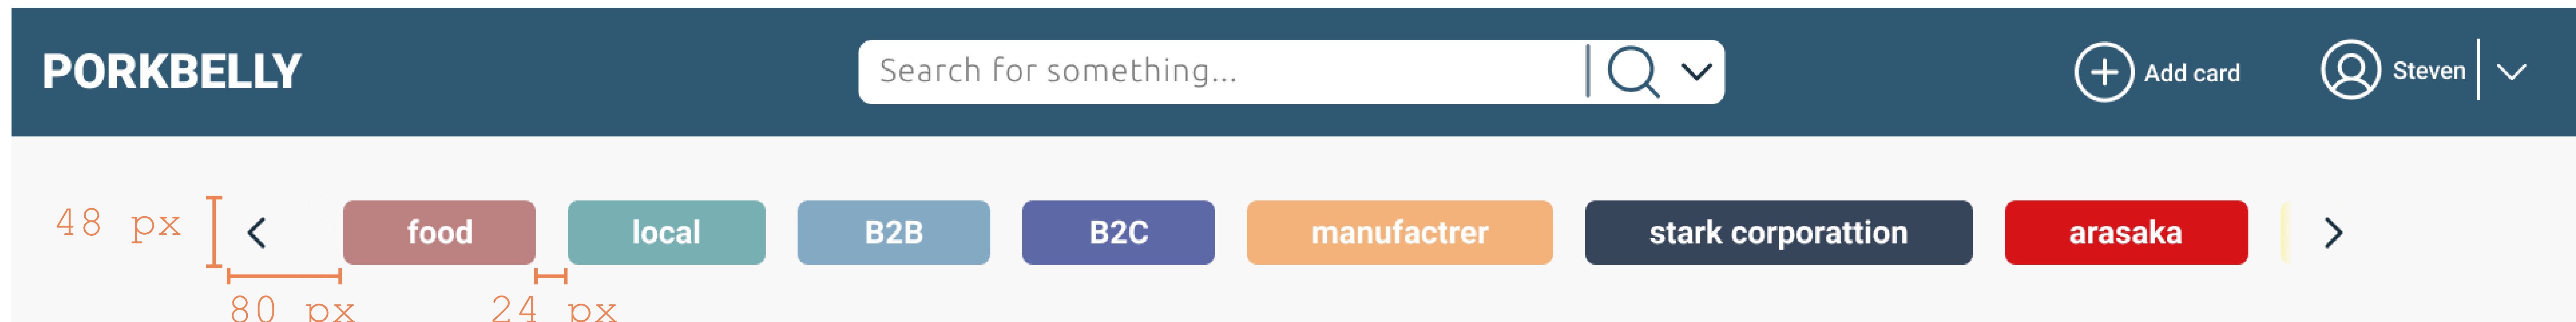

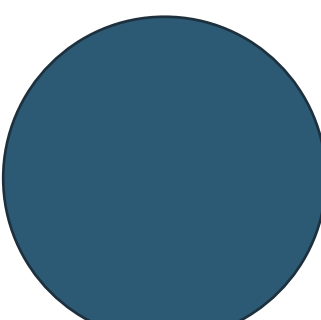

The width of the tagButton component should be based on content width.

Tag label is always centered both horizontally and vertically

There are two parts to the card focus decorator. The first is the border as shown. The second less obvious one is a opaque black overlay over the card with an opacity of 20%. How this can be done is up to the implementation.

The only change in the "wider" view is the increase in horizontal root margins to 152px and image height to 300px. All other elements have the same spacing.

Note the button elements are not affected by the change in margin.

Clicking "add" will create a new tag and associate it to the current card.

If no label is given, default it to "new tag". Give it a default colour.

Note that the colour picker at this stage, can be ignored for this version.
